Keeping Of Rent Control

'Lame Duck' Session Of Congress Also Asked to Vote Two Statehoods

By William F. Arbogast
WASHINGTON, Nov. 27—(AP)—Congress reconvened today for a short "lame duck" session and got a prod from President Truman to extend rent controls and vote statehood for Alaska and Hawaii.

But most of the legislators, in talking with newsmen, said frankly they did not expect much to be accomplished in the few weeks remaining before the new Congress elected Nov. 7 takes over on Jan. 3.

Republicans, who will have increased strength in the new Congress, obviously were in a mood to put off everything except emergency legislation until the 82nd Congress meets.

Mr. Truman sent a letter to the capitol asking a 90-day extension on the rent control program which will expire Dec. 31 in most cities.

He plugged for statehood for Alaska and Hawaii at a conference with Democratic congressional leaders.

In line with Mr. Truman's wishes, the leaders made statehood for Alaska the first order of business for the Senate.

At the same time, however, an agreement was reached to lay that measure aside temporarily whenever there are appropriations or other emergency matters to handle.

If the Alaska measure goes through, statehood for Hawaii will be next on the docket.

The schedule was outlined to reporters by Senate Democratic leader Lucas (Ill.) after the White House huddle of the party's legislative leaders just ahead of the opening gavel.

No Definite Forecast
Lucas said Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) would move to take up the Alaska measure at 2 p.m. (EST). But he would not forecast the chances for passage.

There has been talk of a filibuster by southerners. The motion to take up the bill is subject to debate.

"I can't tell you the prospects for passage," Lucas said. "There was considerable opposition when we left and I assume there is still opposition in the Senate."

Both statehood bills passed the House earlier this year.

The scheduled plans came under fire almost as soon as they were announced. Senator Wherry (R-Neb.), the Republican leader, told newsmen his party will not go along.

The Nebraska said he thinks the lame duck session should devote its major efforts to passing tax legislation and emergency appropriations.

Beyond that, he said, he sees no emergency requiring action before the new Congress meets in January.

Wherry called on President Truman to revise his domestic and foreign policies "to square with the results of the recent election" and submit a new program to Congress.

He put the President's request for rent control extension in the category of business that can wait.

That was another point of conflict with Lucas' plans. The Democratic leader expressed hope to newsmen that Congress will pass a temporary extension at the short session as requested by Mr. Truman. He thought committee hearings would be "very short."

In line with that idea Chairman Maybank (D-S.C.) of the Senate Banking committee called a committee session for 10 a.m. tomorrow to consider the President's request.

House Speaker Rayburn missed the first Monday morning "quarterback conference" with the President. His train from Texas was delayed.

Vice President Barkley was on hand, as was House Democratic leader McCormack (Mass.).

Two secret service agents accompanied Barkley. His guard has been increased since the Nov. 1 attempt to assassinate President Truman at his Blair house living quarters.

Shriners End Two Days Convention

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 27—(AP)—The Central States Shrine Association concluded a two-day convention here Saturday night with a gala pageant entitled "On to Mecca."

The colorful ceremony was witnessed by about 8000 persons in the arena of the Municipal auditorium. Included in the audience were Shriners from Colorado, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri and Arkansas.

Twelve Lost Lives in Fires

Loss of $3,600,000 From Blazes in Eight States

By the Associated Press
Fires in eight states caused at least 12 deaths yesterday and destroyed more than $3,600,000 worth of property.

Among buildings hit were a Minneapolis hotel, a Hyannis, Mass., lodging house, the Arizona State Hospital for Insane, two college dormitories and a prison barracks.

Fifteen persons suffered injuries.

Four persons died in flames that swept the Tower, a residential hotel in Minneapolis. Six persons were injured. The hotel occupied the top three floors of a four-story building.

The dead were listed as Nels Olsen, 55; Henry M. Jennings, 67; Mrs. Edna Sell, about 45, and an unidentified man. The property loss was expected to reach more than $500,000.

In Hyannis, flames gutted a two-story wooden lodging house causing the deaths of Joseph M. James, Jr., 24, Edward Kelley, 22, and Eino Mattson, 48.

Miss Fitzgerald To Fort Wood

Miss Ruth Fitzgerald, superintendent of nurses at the Bothwell hospital, has resigned that position and reports before midnight tonight at Fort Leonard Wood as a First Lieutenant in the Army Nurses Corps.

Miss Fitzgerald presented her resignation to the hospital board two weeks ago, but requested that it not be made public. It was her desire, after having volunteered to return to the Army, to carry on her duties here, then quietly leave and report for duty.

She is a daughter of Mrs. Minnie Fitzgerald, 215 East Gordon, Marshall, Mo. She served four years in the Army Nurses Corps in the last war, more than three years of that time overseas.

Miss Fitzgerald has been at the Bothwell hospital, in her present position, for 27 months.

'Commies' of Chinese at UN Group

Seek Seat For Representing of China in Body

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 27—(AP)—Chinese Communist representatives made their first appearance before a United Nations body today while the soldiers of their government were locked in combat with U.N. troops in Korea.

The Peiping Reds made a dramatic appearance in the General Assembly's political committee as Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky was elaborating on Russian charges that the United States was guilty of aggression against China. U.S. Delegate John Foster Dulles countered with a charge that Russia was trying by every means to poison the friendship of the American and Chinese people.

Simultaneously the assembly's special political committee debated broad principles of representation. A decision on that point is expected to determine whether the Reds or the Nationalists will occupy China's seats in the United Nations.

In still a third body—the executive board of the U.N. international children's fund—the Chinese Reds came within one vote of winning full membership. The board split 12 to 12 on the issue but is scheduled to ballot again later in the day.

Vishinsky accused the United States of transforming Formosa—last stronghold of the Chinese Nationalists—into a military base and of clamping a naval blockade on the island. He introduced a resolution calling on the General Assembly to condemn the American action and for the United States to lift the blockade.

'Mun' League to Meet in Sedalia

A district meeting of the Missouri Municipal League will be held in Sedalia on Wednesday, December 6, to open at the Bothwell hotel at 1:00 o'clock in the afternoon. The afternoon program will be conducted along the lines of panel discussions and various officials throughout the area have been selected to participate. Chester L. Wolfe, city counselor, is in charge of the program.

That evening there will be a dinner at the Bothwell hotel. Otha Rawlins, city counselor of Marshall, will be the speaker. He will discuss the legislative program in detail.

Late in the afternoon the guests will be conducted on a tour of the Pittsburgh Corning corporation glass factory.

The City of Sedalia is a member of the league.

Big Santa Parade to go Friday Regardless of the Weather

Plans for the big Christmas parade are rapidly nearing completion. Santa and his reindeer will be gliding down Ohio avenue starting at 2 o'clock Friday regardless of the weather. The parade committee is hoping that long range weather forecasts which call for a bright sunny day will prove to be correct.

The line-up for the parade has expanded to over 50 floats and bands and the biggest and best parade in Sedalia's history is promised.

Sedalia Police Chief Edgar Neighbors has ordered that all cars be removed from Ohio avenue not later than noon on the day of the parade. All other streets along the route of the parade will also be cleared of cars. A map showing the exact route of the parade will appear in Tuesday's Democrat.

Kills Neighbor, Then Himself

Climbs Into Home He Set Ablaze And Ends His Life

PARSONS, Kas., Nov. 27—(AP)—A bachelor farmer set fire to his home and two farm buildings today, fatally shot a young neighbor who had come to investigate and then died himself in his burning dwelling.

Dead were: W. A. Houghton, 46, and John N. Kyle, who would have been 27 next Friday.

Sheriff Lee Montgomery of Neosho county said there would be no inquest. He said all evidence indicated Houghton killed himself after shooting Kyle with a double-barreled shotgun.

The sheriff said he had been told that Houghton had been upset since the death of his mother four years ago.

The early morning tragedy occurred at the Houghton farm, 12 miles northwest of here.

Kyle was shot to death as his wife and two-year-old son, Larry John, sat in the family automobile 150 feet away.

Mrs. Kyle, an expectant mother, told reporters she and her husband arose earlier than usual because Kyle had to report for jury service at Erie today. Shortly after 4 a. m., she said, she saw buildings afire at the Houghton farm, a mile away.

Mr. and Mrs. Kyle got their small son and drove to the scene. The young mother and her son stayed in the car, while Kyle went to investigate.

"I heard a shot," Mrs. Kyle said. "I thought maybe they were shooting to scare the cattle out of the barn."

She said several other neighbors arrived and entered the farm yard. They came back to the road in a few minutes, telling her that Houghton, armed with a shotgun and a rifle, had ordered them off the place.

"I set this afire. All of you leave," Mrs. Kyle said the neighbors quoted Houghton as saying.

The neighbors said Houghton pointed the shotgun at them and pulled the trigger, but that the gun was empty. They said they asked the man where Kyle was and the farmer told them: "John has gone home."

Mrs. Kyle said she became alarmed then.

"I knew something had happened," she said.

She went to a nearby farm house and called Sheriff Montgomery, but learned he already was on his way to the farm.

Mrs. Kyle said she didn't see the shooting of her husband; that she had only heard the shot.

Clyde Hodgden, one of the farmers attracted to the scene, said he saw Houghton climb through a window into his burning home. Then he heard a shot, he said. The neighbors said they couldn't get in to save Houghton.

Houghton's badly charred body later was found in a bedroom of the five-room house. The house was destroyed.

Duck Soup Fog Even Confuses The Ducks

LONDON, Nov. 27—(AP)—Fog thick as duck soup yesterday had even the wild ducks befogged.

Storm Toll in Deaths Mount In The East

Fury Subsides as Digging Out of Snow Is Under Way

By the Associated Press
A task force of thousands of men labored today to cut through a snow blockade and repair damage caused by storms in the north-eastern quarter of the nation.

The count of the dead rose to 236.

Damage ran into many millions. Some estimates put property loss in the Atlantic coastal areas whipped by week-end winds at $100,000,000.

Hundreds of stores and factories were closed "for the duration." This added to the total cost of the spasm of wild weather.

Hundreds of motorists were marooned. Scores of schools didn't open their doors.

More snow fell in Ohio today. It swirled down into the big industrial centers of Cleveland, Akron, Youngstown, Canton and Columbus. The weather bureau predicted the flurries would continue for 24 hours but would not be heavy.

Youngstown, Ohio, already had a 29 inch fall.

Industry and business were paralyzed in most of Ohio. Hundreds of motorists were stranded in farm houses—some of them in barns.

The cost of the storm in Cleveland alone was reckoned at $10,000,000.

An estimated 40,000 to 50,000 men an thousands of pieces of equipment were thrown into the fight to clear lanes through the snow in Ohio.

The state highway department figured 20,000 cars were stalled along Ohio's roads.

Other states in the belt burdened with snow that ranged from ten inches to three feet in depth also strove to throw off the stagnating burden.

Rescue operations were under way for hundreds of snow-trapped motorists in Kentucky.

More than 2,000 men were trying to clear the main traffic arteries in the downtown section of Pittsburgh. Thousands of others were at work in the suburbs.

The snow reached a record depth of 28 inches in Pittsburgh, much of its vast industry was stalled.

Many main highways and virtually all secondary roads were impassable in the snow sector of West Virginia.

Thousands still were homeless in the wake of the east coast wind and rain storm that spread death and destruction from South Carolina to Maine.

In New Jersey alone, 2,000,000 men women and children started the day in homes without heat, light or telephone service. But the job of restoring utilities lines was under way.

The threat of floods rose in New England. Streams swelled after nearly four inches of rain.

Decorations Being Placed

The Christmas decorations are going up in the downtown section of Sedalia getting ready for the Christmas parade which will be held at 2:00 o'clock Friday afternoon.

Max Raines, assistant manager of the Raines Decorating company, and a crew of workmen, started Sunday, while the downtown streets were comparatively quiet, putting up the spruce decorations. They will work hard to have all the 74 overhead lines, including large 24-inch wreaths, Santa Claus plaques and other cut-outs, all in place by the time Santa Claus arrives to drive his reindeer in the big parade.

As soon as they finish the Electricians' Union will get to work putting up all the strings of lights and the city will be set with a warm welcome for the "old man" from the cold climate, at the North Pole.

U. S. C. of C. Favors Universal Training
WASHINGTON, Nov. 27—(AP)—The U. S. Chamber of Commerce today urged "earliest possible enactment" of a Universal Military Training program.

Such a program, the chamber said in a statement, should become effective "as soon as manpower is made available by reason of any future diminishing requirements of selective service."

Fulton, an artillery liaison officer with the U. S. Second division "got the word late last night (Saturday) that an artillery outfit across the road from us was in a firefight."

At the time Fulton was in a command post in a Korean mud-bath telephoning his artillery battalion for support fire for two forward infantry companies.

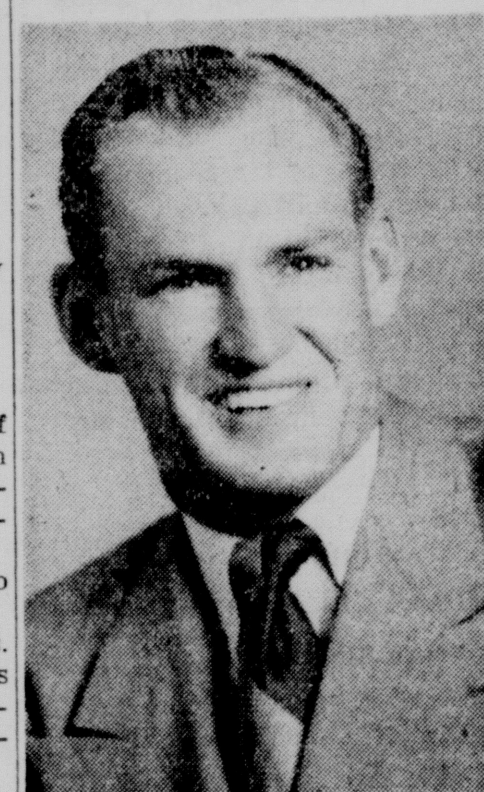

"Suddenly I heard firing, small arms, close," he said. "Then there was nobody around me."

"I said 'Jim (Capt. James D. Baldrige, Boise, Idaho, who was on the other end of the phone line) I'm leaving.'"

Trains Ablaze After Collision

Troop Train Plows Into a Freight At Screven, Ga.

SCREVEN, Ga., Nov. 27—(AP)—A troop train carrying about 300 draftees and recruits smashed into a freight train at this small town depot today and both engines burst into flames. Several trainmen were hurt but all the soldiers escaped serious injury.

Most of the soldiers were just arousing in Pullmans when the accident happened shortly after 7:30 a. m. (EST). Officers in charge of the train said all were accounted for quickly. The army said 14 soldiers were bruised or shaken up.

Fuel oil from the diesel engines spewed over cars of both trains and over the small depot and in a few minutes a tremendous fire was raging. The engines were telescoped into an arch. The first three or four cars of each train were badly damaged.

Trainmen gave this account: An Atlantic Coast Line freight was either parked or moving slowly at the depot in this town of less than 1,000 persons, about 75 miles southwest of Savannah, Georgia.

The troop train of nine cars was approaching at a speed of 40 to 45 miles an hour. The engineer saw the freight and began applying his brakes about three-quarters of a mile away. The brakes failed to hold.

Crewmen abandoned the freight and just before the crash most of the crewmen on the troop train jumped. The troop train was headed for Camp Rucker, Ala.

Army officers in charge of the train quickly called the roll of soldiers. Then they moved to the town square to wait for a relief train to arrive.

The injured included E. J. Fallon, engineer of the troop train; conductor L. H. Robinson; a fireman named Sammons and a brakeman named McCain.

Ambulances and fire trucks rushed here from Waycross, Ga., about 30 miles away; from Jessup, about 15 and from Savannah.

Jaffe was editor of the now defunct Amerasia magazine which figured prominently in the Senate inquiry. Jaffe was arrested in 1947 with five others on charges of conspiracy to obtain illegal possession of government documents. The arrests were made after hundreds of secret federal papers were discovered in the New York office of Amerasia.

Jaffe pleaded guilty to unlawful possession of government documents and was fined $2,500 in that case.

When subpoenaed before the Senate committee, Jaffe refused to answer many questions about the Amerasia affair.

The indictment against Browder contained 16 counts, against Field 32 counts and against Jaffe 26 counts.

Under District of Columbia law, the maximum penalty for contempt—$1,000 fine and a year in jail—could be imposed for each separate count if the charges were upheld by a jury trial.

Browder And Five Others Are Indicted

Charge Contempt Of Congress in Action Taken

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27—(AP)—Earl Browder, one time No. 1 American Communist, and five other persons were indicted today on charges of contempt of Congress.

The indictments were based on the refusal of the six to answer questions asked by congressional committees or to give requested information.

Browder, Frederick Vanderbilt Field and Philip J. Jaffe were accused of contemptuously refusing to answer questions during a Senate investigation of "communist-in-government charges."

Dr. Edward A. Rumely, executive secretary of the Committee for Constitutional Government, and two others were indicted for refusing information asked by a House lobby investigating committee.

The others were Joseph P. Kamp, executive vice-chairman of the Constitutional Educational League, and William L. Patterson, executive secretary of the Civil Rights Congress.

Conviction for contempt of Congress is punishable by up to a year's imprisonment and $1,000 fine.

Browder bossed the American Communist party for years until he apparently missed a turn in the party line from Moscow and was removed from his job several years ago.

Failed To Get Answers
Browder, Field and Jaffe were cited by the Senate Sept. 22.

The Senate's action upheld a recommendation by a foreign relations subcommittee which investigated Communist-in-government charges of Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.).

The committee, headed by Senator Tydings (D-Md.), failed to get answers to many questions put to Browder, Field and Jaffe.

Field, a wealthy New Yorker, refused to tell the committee whether he is or ever has been a member of the Communist party. He is a former official of the Institute of Pacific Affairs.

Louis Budenz, a former Communist who renounced the party, had testified to the committee that the institute was infested with Reds.

Jaffe was editor of the now defunct Amerasia magazine which figured prominently in the Senate inquiry. Jaffe was arrested in 1947 with five others on charges of conspiracy to obtain illegal possession of government documents. The arrests were made after hundreds of secret federal papers were discovered in the New York office of Amerasia.

Quick Ending of War in Korea is Shattered by the Savage Fighting

BULLETIN

U.S. ARMY EIGHTH HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Tuesday, Nov. 28—(AP)—The Korean war entered a real crisis for the United Nations forces today with collapse of the Korean Republic Second Corps in a two-day retreat of up to 20 miles on the Eighth army's right flank.

The Chinese Communists, having smashed back the Allied right flank in northwest Korea in a threat to cut behind the Eighth army's Chongchon river line, then threw mass manpower against the center.

The Second and 25th divisions of the U. S. Ninth corps were forced by this pressure and the flank threat to pull back to try to restore a firm line with the reorganizing Korean Republic 2nd Corps.

TOKYO, Nov. 27—(AP)—Complete collapse of the United Nations end-the-war offensive was threatened today by the heavy new Chinese attacks on the frozen northwest Korean front.

The U.S. 24th Division, its right flank imperilled by infiltrating Red forces, pulled back from Chongju near the west coast.

It was the second time this month that the battle-hardened Americans were forced to give up without a fight the rail and highway city 51 miles south of the Manchurian border.

All along the northwest front, Allied forces were shoved back by elements of two Chinese Red armies—more than 100,000 men. Swarms of Chinese attacked in predawn darkness to the blare of bugles.

A spokesman described the situation as "quite confused."

Field dispatches said the eastern anchor of the line, Tokchon, had fallen to the Reds.

Ten Troopships Do Not Conform to Safety Standards

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1950, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON.—This column recently revealed that seven troopships, now carrying American troops across the Atlantic and Pacific, are equipped with unsafe lifeboat gear. Further investigation has now uncovered that, in addition to this, the fire-detecting, extinguishing and alarm systems are also below the minimum safety standards set by the U.S. Coast Guard.

It should be noted that U.S. Coast Guard standards are high, and many foreign luxury liners do not conform to them. Nevertheless, ships carrying U.S. troops, should.

Furthermore, the steel bulkheads on these troopships are unlined, uninsulated and uncovered, hence a fire hazard in case of overheating; the ventilation system doesn't shut off automatically in case of fire but would continue to fan the flames; and the electrical equipment in the hospital and battery rooms is subject to explosion.

This column has also learned that, in addition to the seven troopships previously named, three others are in the same condition. Meanwhile, it remains a fact that illegal, Russian-type mines are drifting in Far Eastern waters as an added threat to navigation.

The seven troopships named earlier that do not comply with Coast Guard safety standards are the Generals W. M. Black, Le Roy Ellings, W. G. Hann, Stuart Heintzelman, W. C. Lang-litt, M. B. Stewart and S. D. Sturgis, each with a capacity of 4,000 troops.

In addition, three larger troopships are in the same condition: The Generals John Pope, William Weigel and M. C. Meigs. (Each of these is capable of carrying 6,000 troops.) All 10 ships are now hauling G.I.'s to Korea and Germany, and bringing dependents back to this country.

Navy Promises Changes

Following this column's investigation, the Navy has promised to bring the 10 troopships up to standard as soon as practical. Already a plan has been tentatively approved to equip the lifeboat gear with auxiliary, Diesel generators to swing the davits into position for lowering lifeboats. With the present equipment, it takes the ship's power from the engine room to swing the davits out in safe time. However, this central power in the engine room frequently fails in case of a bad hit by a mine or submarine.

A Navy spokesman, interviewed on these deficiencies, claims they are not as serious as they sound. He pointed out that as long as the ships are crammed with troops, the G.I.'s can detect a fire and spread the alarm without an approved Coast Guard detection and alarm system. He also stated that Coast Guard standards are unusually high, so that even foreign luxury liners cannot pass their inspection.

NOTE—Most U.S. tourists don't realize it, but when they sail on these foreign luxury liners they are taking greater chances than on American commercial passenger vessels.

Brannan Plan Feud

Friends say that Allan Kline, hard-working boss of the American Farm Bureau Federation, is feathered up like a barnyard rooster over his latest snub by the White House.

When Kline requested an appointment with President Truman, the President agreed, but only on the condition that Kline's bitter enemy, Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brannan, accompany him to the White House.

When Kline got this message, he exploded: "Truman and the White House will freeze over before I go over there with that guy Brannan."

The President did some exploding himself when he learned about the farm leader's angry response and is reported to have told aides: "I didn't want to see the S.O.B. anyway."

Taft Doesn't Smile

A kidding remark by Secretary of State Dean Acheson taken out of context has pitched him into a head-on collision with Sen. Robert Taft and the McCarthyites again.

A few days after Senator Taft told reporters he was not an isolationist, but wanted to "re-examine" our foreign policy, Acheson was speaking off the cuff to the National Council of Negro Women and said: "I read in the papers there is a species of homo sapiens which has recently become extinct. That is the isolationist. We are told it's very rude to refer to anybody as an isolationist and it hurts their feelings. But a new species, the re-examination, has come on the horizon. I was very much puzzled when I heard about this new species."

"It's possible that a re-examination might be a farmer who goes out every morning and pulls up his crops to see how they are doing. Or it might be this re-examination comes down to breakfast in the morning and looks at his wife and says, 'Do I really love that woman? How did I ever turn up here with her?' When we re-examine, does it mean we are like the sound navigator who on a long flight or voyage checks his course by the sun and stars every day? Or does it mean the navigator say, 'How did I ever get started on this trip?'"

"If to re-examine means going before Congress and explaining every single item of every policy and every program, we all belong to that school, and we all re-examine our progress. We all find out our failure, look at what new actions we should take, and justify what we have been doing."

Senator Taft, who usually has a keen sense of humor, in this case has hit the ceiling. He just doesn't see anything funny about it. Though the rest of Washington is laughing, it may not laugh in the long run; for this new feud between the State Department and GOP Senate leaders may further delay getting back on a stable bipartisan foreign policy.

Headlines and Headaches

Most cabinet officers wouldn't dare try it, but Secretary of Defense Marshall appointed Anna Rosenberg as assistant secretary without even checking with the President. Truman would fire any other cabinet member who did this—but not Marshall. . . . The Russians are reported building a fleet of revolutionary midjet submarines. Displacing only 300 tons, the tiny subs will be operated by four-man Russian crews. Russian shipyards are reported tooling up to turn them out by the thousands. . . . Secretary for Air Finletter, just back from an inspection tour of Alaska, was shocked at the tar-paper shacks which house military families. He will ask for $26,000,000 for Eilson air base and $15,000,000 for Ladd air base to improve living conditions. . . . The F.B.I. has such a load of loyalty investigations that agents have been threatened with transfers unless they work overtime. J. Edgar Hoover, who works long hours himself, has warned that the G-men will have to work overtime without pay. . . . U.S. Ambassador Bruce reports from Paris that Charles De Gaulle is making a strong comeback in French politics because of tremendous French unrest over defeats in Indo-China. Many prominent politicians are turning to De Gaulle as the man who can lead France to victory both in Indo-China and Europe.

Rogge Finally Learns Truth About Communist 'Democracy'

By Bruce Bissatt

The Russians always say they are for peace. They say it's we in America who are unfriendly and warlike.

In spite of our long and futile efforts to engage Russia sincerely in measures for lasting peace, there still are some among us who really believe we haven't tried hard enough. For them, the recent experience of O. John Rogge at the "World Peace Congress" in Warsaw may offer some instruction.

A former ardent backer of Henry Wallace and the Progressive Party, Rogge until recently clung to the notion the Communist and non-Communist worlds could be reconciled. He bent over backwards to urge the Red viewpoint, and was virtually a hero in the Communist press.

But this time, at a meeting dominated by Reds, he had the temerity to speak some simple truths. He dared to say the United States wasn't guilty of aggression in Korea, and that Communists are using force to impress their ideas on the world.

This was their friend talking, the man who had often defied the folks at home to stand up for the principle of Soviet-American understanding. But from the moment he breathed criticism of the Soviet Union and Communist tactics, he was through.

Now, in a flash, he's just like all the rest of us Americans. He's a tool of Wall Street, a warmonger, an imperialist. To the Kremlin and its plant hordes, there is only black and white. You're either a complete friend or a complete enemy. Simply because he had the nerve to utter a few incontrovertible facts, all Rogge's past overtures of friendship are forgotten. He has been shoved beyond the pale.

Does anybody need any better evidence of how unreal the Communists' world is? The unassailable fact is they don't want reality. They don't want friends—for true friends criticize. What they want are lackeys, wholly submissive to their will and their distorted, hot-house view of the world. No man who is anything more than that can have any place in the Soviet scheme.

This deep-seated characteristic of Russian thinking is one of the really great barriers to any accord between East and West. So long as the Soviets dwell in their upside-down land where war is peace and aggression is self-defense, words can't have the same meaning for us as for them. There's no channel through which we can reach the men in the Kremlin. We don't speak the same language. And they discourage every slight effort to learn even a few words in common.

Rogge's record doesn't exactly entitle him to a hero's rating at home, but at least we can be grateful to him for exposing once more the absurdity of trying to make anything solid out of what the Russians say on any subject at all.

GRACE IN THE DUNGEON

There are many who say: "I am caught in a web of circumstances that bind me hand and foot. How can I have abundant living under those circumstances?" In answer I refer you to a passage which tells of those who "find grace in the dungeon." (Jeremiah 31:2; Moffatt.) If you find grace at all, you must find it in the dungeon. You are caught—you are not able to get out of the dungeon; then the only thing to do is to get the dungeon out of you—to find grace in that very dungeon.

The people to whom this passage was addressed did "find grace in the dungeon"—they were purified in the Exile, and became the instrument of God through that awful experience of national bondage. The dungeon became a door! You needn't accept your circumstances as from God, but you can accept them as an opportunity for God to use them to make you creative.

A girl of twenty was confined to her bed for a year with a bad heart. The first week was spent in bitter rebellion. Then she read "Christ and Human Suffering" and it opened the possibility of not merely bearing suffering and frustration, but also of using them. It was a revelation to her. The remaining fifty-one weeks of that year were beautiful—the best year of her life. She arose out of that year awakened in soul and in mind. She determined to have a college education, and did so. She is one of the most promising and useful young people I know. She found grace in the dungeon. The frustration became fruitfulness.

Among the most beautiful of Paul's writings are these lines: "This salutation is in my own hand, from Paul. 'Remember I am in prison. Grace be with you.'" (Colossians 4:18, Moffatt.) You would have expected him to say, "I am in prison—God give me grace." But no; he puts it the other way: "I am in prison. Grace be with you." I have found grace in the dungeon—enough and to spare—I pass it on to you.

Gracious God and Father, if my circumstances become a dungeon, then help me to find there grace enough for myself and to spare for others. Help me not to whine or complain, but to find resources enough to pass on. For I know that Thy grace is sufficient for me, not merely when life is free and open, but when life turns into a dungeon. I shall find grace there. Amen.

Q. and A.

You and the Service

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

Q. I am a Navy reservist with four dependents. How do you advise me to avoid a call to active duty?

A. There's no way to avoid the call if it's going to be made. But with four dependents they won't take you. Just tell the Navy about it. They'll take care of you.

Q. My son was a Marine and got a physical discharge. He had a broken leg, a serious operation on his right knee, both of his collar bones broken and several fractured ribs. What's his status?

A. Well-bruised. Chances are he won't be called back.

Q. My son always had migraine headaches. And although we explained this to the doctor who examined him for the draft, the boy was accepted. We have done everything possible to keep him out of service including two appeals. But he is going in next week. Is there anything else we can do? What do you advise?

A. There is nothing else you can do except write to him regularly, preferably cheerful letters about what's going on around home.

"When I say you're looking younger every day, I speak as an old admirer—when I say you're not as young as you were, I speak as your physician!"

Persistent Guy, Isn't He?

THE STORY: An Infantry squad, wiped out in the Pacific war, finds itself in Westwaygo, where most of the unit lived before the war. At the bench a girl, Margie Lou Denslow, almost drowns, but Sergeant Eddie gets his dog Duke (who can see his master and his friends) to save her. The dog's barking attracts a man passing in a car, who tries artificial respiration. Another of the squad, Carl Peterson, has gone to visit his wife.

VII
CARL PETERSON had no trouble finding his wife. Without knowing why he did it he went automatically to the little house on Poplar Street which he and Kirsten had wanted to buy since long before they were married.

There was a vacant lot on the north side of the house. Three kids about 12 were playing One Old Cat there with an indoor baseball. While Carl was watching one of them hit a liner that bounced off the side of the house. It missed a large window by inches, a fact which caused the players considerable concern mingled with congratulatory satisfaction. They cautioned one another to be more careful but went on with the game.

As Carl stood on the sidewalk looking over the white picket fence at the front door Kirsten got off the bus at the corner and came immediately toward him.

She was wearing dark blue overalls with a workman's photographic identification disc over the left breast. Kirsten was tall and big in a sleek, lithe sort of a way, equipped with long, strong muscles like a man. She carried herself as queens probably used to walk, high and confidently, as if she knew that all obstacles would be cleared from her path. Her taffy-colored hair was stuffed under a bandana leaving her fair complexion and fine features to fend for themselves without benefit of a frame. She hadn't changed much unless you counted the fact that now she looked as if she seldom finished the paving of West Third street from Osage to Park avenue.

William E. Brown, night clerk at the news stand at the Missouri Pacific station, resigned and will probably return to work as a railroad telegrapher.

A—The height to which people grow seems to be a matter of family, diet and luck. Growth, particularly in boys, does not proceed at an even rate, and there is still a chance that you will shoot up a good many inches in the next two or three years. Until recently there was nothing at all which offered any prospect of increasing growth. There are now some experimental studies with vitamin B 12 which suggest that this may possibly (I repeat, possibly) add to one's stature. This should not be tried except under the guidance of a physician who can keep track of all its possible effects.

Q—Is an infection of the lower bronchial tubes curable? If so, how long, with expert care, would it take a 13-year-old boy to get well?

A—It all depends on what germs are causing the infection, and how large an area is involved. Of course the chances of cure are much better now than they used to be, thanks to the sulfa drugs and penicillin and its relatives.

Q—I have a 12-year-old boy who stutters. In a column on that subject not long ago you mentioned schools which might help. How could I get in touch with them?

A—I believe that you could obtain a list of schools or speech teachers by writing the secretary-treasurer of the American Speech and Hearing Association, Wayne University, Detroit, Mich. You might also be interested in a booklet on stuttering prepared for par-

Q—What do you think of our 16-year-old boy drinking cocktails? He says all the others do.

A—I think it most inadvisable. ALL of the others of that age do not, and it cannot be good for him physically or in any other way.

NOTE ON QUESTIONS
Dr. Jordan is unable to answer directly individual questions from readers. However, once a week, in this "Q & A" column he will answer the most interesting and the most frequently asked questions received during the week.

Carbon dioxide gas, from which dry ice is made, is produced by several deep wells in New Mexico.

walls and the blue and red overstuffed three-piece suite plus a mahogany table big enough to hold their small radio. There was a fireplace, one of the reasons they had wanted that particular house when they were only window shopping for a home. Opposite to the fireplace was the big window outside of which the kids were playing One Old Cat.

Kirsten went into the bedroom and so, after a moment, did Carl. Their very own old familiar things were there, the curly maple dresser with the squeaky drawer that stuck, the prim little straight-back chair that Kirsten always sat on when she put on her stockings.

Carl was amazed at how little she had changed in any particular whatever. As the son of a minister he had been reared in the tradition that sinning set its indelible stamp on the sinner. It would have been more in keeping with Carl's preconceived ideas if Kirsten were haggard and bedraggled looking. The absolute opposite of that was true. Kirsten was lovelier than he remembered. He had to readjust emotions to fit the facts.

CARL did not follow her into the adjoining bath. He could hear the water from the shower spray running in icy needles, Kirsten was a seal in her preference for cold water, as he sat down on her own private stiff-backed dressing chair to try to decide what to do.

Provisionally he got it when Kirsten, wearing a ragged old bathrobe of his own that he had left behind, came out from her shower all glowing and more beautiful than ever.

Carl failed to get the significance of the bathrobe until later. Scandinavian minds do not leap to conclusions so readily as those of the Latin and Gallic races. The men of the north, however, when they do get a good grip on an idea usually die with it still between their teeth.

What did attract and hold Carl's immediate attention was that Kirsten went to the dresser where she had laid her purse, took a key from an inner flap of the small bag and opened the top drawer.

SPRY AND MIGHTY POWER PLANT

with a proud pedigree

HERE you behold the up-to-the-minute version of a high-compression engine that has taught a whole industry something about fuel efficiency.

Fact is, Buick pioneered the deep-breathing valve-in-head engine 47 years ago—and thus blazed a trail that aircraft engines—and more recently automobile engines—have followed.

But don't let that ancient lineage fool you.

Today's Buick engine is not simply a valve-in-head. It's a Fireball—which means that it uses fuel-saving, power-peaking principles that are found in no other motorcar on America's highways.

"This is all very well," you say, "but what does it do for me?"

Mister, that's what we'd like to show you.

Come settle yourself at the graceful Buick wheel. Gently press the handy gas treadle—and feel this spry and mighty motor come to life.

Then head for the open road, and discover what a whale of a lot of fun it can be to have Fireballs under your hood.

Better come in soon, and get acquainted with the engine—and the automobile—that have won more than 200,000 owners of other cars to 1950 Buicks.

OBITUARIES

Walker M. Woolery

Walker M. Woolery, 39, 619 East Ninth street, died at 1:20 o'clock Sunday morning in the office of Dr. J. M. Rodeman, 219½ South Ohio avenue, where he had gone for treatment. Death was due to coronary thrombosis, it was explained by Dr. Rodeman. Dr. C. Gordon Stauffacher, coroner, was notified and after an examination and inquiry said an inquest was not necessary.

Mr. Woolery had called Dr. Rodeman, early Saturday night complaining of not feeling well and asked if he could go to his office for treatment. Mr. Woolery arrived at Dr. Rodeman's office about 11:00 o'clock and after a thorough examination Dr. Rodeman planned to take him to the Bothwell hospital for further observation and treatment, and notified Mrs. Woolery of the plan.

Dr. Rodeman called the Gillespie ambulance but before its arrival, Mr. Woolery had another attack. Efforts to revive him through the use of a respirator were futile and Mr. Woolery was pronounced dead at 1:20 a. m.

Mr. Woolery was born July 21, 1911 in Pleasant Green, where he lived until 1941, when he came to Sedalia to be employed at the Town and Country Shoe factory. He was foreman of the stock fitting department there. February 27, 1940 he married Miss Martha Taylor, of Sedalia.

He was a member of the East Sedalia Baptist church and was a Sunday school teacher for the class of 13-year old boys. His class will attend the funeral in a body.

Mr. Woolery is survived by: his wife; two sons, Willard Lee, six years old; and Wayne Allen, four years old; his father, James T. Woolery, of Pleasant Green; two sisters, Mrs. Emmett Steele, of Sedalia and Mrs. F. M. Argenbright, of Pocatello, Idaho; and one brother, James T. Woolery, Jr., of Kansas City.

The body will be at the family home until 10:00 o'clock Tuesday morning, when it will be taken to the Gillespie funeral home, where services will be held at 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon. The Rev. Walter P. Arnold, pastor of the East Sedalia Baptist church, will officiate. E. W. Roffey, A. P. Beazley, E. Schwenk and Clyde Waters, accompanied by Mrs. Clyde Waters, will sing.

Palbearers will be: Glenn Reckard, Allen Porter, L. A. Duff, Robert McCarty, James Anderson and John Morarity.

Burial will be in the Crown Hill cemetery.

Chinese Reds Swarm UN Front And Force Allied Troops Back

Resistance Formidable

Stiffening Red resistance was reported elsewhere in the north-east. U. S. Marines, pushing westward in a drive from Changjin reservoir, were halted by dug-in Chinese four miles west of Yudan.

On the northwest front, the 24th division's withdrawal from Chongju was forced by Chinese slipping through the Republic of Korea (ROK) First division lines south-west of Taechon. The 24th division itself was not under attack.

On the ROK First division's right flank, the U. S. 25th and Second divisions battled the Chinese fiercely throughout Monday.

A U. S. First corps spokesman said the 25th was hit hard in the Maioja area, six miles northeast of Yongbyon. He said the situation there was critical.

AP correspondent Don Whitehead, with the U. S. 25th division, sized up the situation this way: "The big United Nations offensive to bring an early end to the Korean war was threatened with complete collapse today. This was the stark reality of the situation after 48 hours of savage fighting."

"Chinese and North Korean Red troops have dealt a stunning blow to United Nations forces. The offensive that rolled forward for two days has been stopped cold. U. N. troops are on the defensive after giving up most of their gains."

Reserve units of Americans, British and Turks were rushed up to bolster a sagging 30-mile eastern section of the winding 80-mile front stretching inland from the Yellow sea. The front runs from 40 to 60 miles south of the Manchurian border.

Assault Saturday Night

An estimated 130,000 Reds—most of them Chinese in quilted winter uniforms—began the counter-assault late Saturday night.

Republic of Korea (ROK) troops and the U. S. Second and 25th divisions bore the brunt of the attacks, which continued with increasing fury Sunday night.

Correspondent Leif Erickson said the American divisions stopped the second night attacks in the center of the line after earlier withdrawals of several miles.

The situation on the eastern flank, manned by the ROK Seventh, Eighth and Sixth divisions, was not clear. Fighting withdrawals of four to 11 miles in the ROK sector were reported Sunday.

Twelve Lost Lives in Fires

Three hundred convicts escaped injury when flames destroyed a wooden Alabama state prison barracks near Montgomery. The fire was believed to have started from the chimney of a coal heater overtaxed by 20-degree weather.

The fire occurred before dawn. Guards and trusty prisoners awakened the sleeping inmates. None of the convicts attempted an escape after they left the flaming barracks.

Big Fire at Moultrie

A fire raged for three hours and whipped through three blocks of buildings in Moultrie, Ga., a cotton and peanut center in the southwestern part of the state. No injuries were reported but damage was estimated at more than $250,000. Fire departments from six towns, and hundreds of volunteers fought the flames. Among the buildings destroyed were a cotton compress and warehouse and two fertilizer mixing plants.

Fewer Deer Hunters But Kill is Better

One Waited Whole Minute to Bag Buck at 6:31

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Elmer Devine of Desloge, Mo., wasted a whole minute of the 1950 Missouri deer season today.

He didn't bag his buck until 6:31 a. m., a full minute after the six day season started. The St. Francois county deputy sheriff's prize was an eight-point whitetail buck, killed in the stony battery country on the Wayne-Iron county line.

Another early bird was Donald Lidsky of Overland, Mo., who shot a seven-point just south of Big Spring state park in Carter county at 6:35.

Reports of the hunting dribbled in slowly from the 26-county Ozark area where an estimated 25,000 Missourians are expected to try their luck between now and Saturday.

Dan Saults, head of the Conservation Commission's information section, reported from Van Buren that last week's old weather seemed to have put an early season damper on. He said there were fewer than the expected number of riflemen in the woods this opening day.

activities committee from C. F. Scotten, superintendent of Pettis county schools.

Mr. John Carroll Junior Chamber of Commerce Sedalia, Missouri Dear Mr. Carroll:

It is my understanding that all school children of the county have been invited to attend the Christmas parade to be held in Sedalia Friday afternoon, December 1.

I believe that the parade planned for this year will be unusual in nature and both interesting and educational for the children.

Local school boards in each district have the right to decide whether or not to dismiss the school so the children may attend the parade. I would fully approve of dismissal for this purpose because the occasion will be a memorable one.

Very truly yours, C. F. Scotten County Superintendent

Bodies in Ice Tomb Until Spring

MORAN, Wyo., Nov. 27.—(AP)—The eight children and 13 adults aboard the missionary plane which crashed into Mount Moran last Tuesday will remain in their icy tomb far above timberline until spring.

That's the decision of mountain climbers and aviation experts. They feel attempts to remove anything from the charred wreckage of the DC-3 would only endanger more lives.

"Everything humanly possible has been done," according to the Rev. Ivan E. Olsen of North Platte, Neb.

Olsen represented the New Tribes Mission at search headquarters here. The plane was en route, with mission workers, from Chico, Calif., to Billings, Mont., when it struck the peak.

Paul A. Judge, acting superintendent of Grand Teton national park, said mountain climbing on the northeast ridge of Mount Moran, near the crash site, will be prohibited until the civil aeronautics board can make an investigation after winter snows melt.

Paul Petzoldt and Blake Vandewater sealed the peak to the wreckage Saturday after an icy three-day battle. They found what appeared to be the charred remains of one unidentified person in the wreckage. Much has been buried by snow since the crash.

Eritrea Fights Locusts

ASMARA, Eritrea—(P)—Locust control experts—including a score newly arrived from Britain—will open a full-scale campaign against a serious locust threat. The "Biblical plague" has already left its mark in widespread farming areas. The big threat is expected, however, from swarms due to breed before next April.

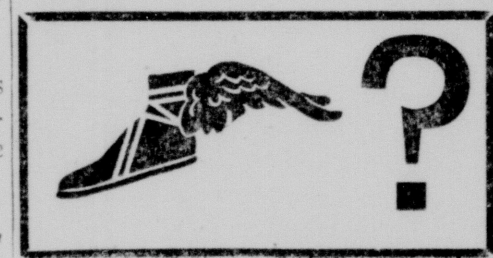

The invasion of locusts is not peculiar to Eritrea. Swarms have been reported all over the Middle East, in an area covering millions of square miles. Side by side with the trained scientists, in this part of the world, are the witch doctors with their charms and muttered incantations. Their presence helps the morale of the excited natives.

Street Car Chases Motorist

JUMET, Belgium —(P)—Fast thinking and driving by a Belgian street car motorman led to the apprehension of a hit-and-run driver. The street car was loading passengers when a passing car ran down a passenger and fractured his pelvis. The driver cut his headlights and hit the accelerator pedal. The motorman yelled a warning to his passengers and set off in pursuit, with their agreement. He was holding his own when the terminus was reached. Two passengers jumped out, commandeered a taxi and continued the pursuit which ended in capture.

Sooners May Again Go to the Sugar Bowl

Missouri Tigers Go to Miami to Play on Friday

By Skipper Patrick

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 27—(AP)—The team Oklahoma and the man Reynolds proved football masters of the midlands for 1950.

The Oklahoma Sooners, looking back on an unbroken string of 30 victories and three Big Seven championships, will play Oklahoma A & M at Stillwater Saturday.

Reynolds, a fantastic back of 175 pounds and 19 years of age, completed the greatest sophomore season in Big Seven history as he and his Nebraska Cornhuskers wound up on the short end of a 49-35 scoting battle with Oklahoma last Saturday.

Oklahoma, No. 1 in the nation in the Associated Press poll, is expected to announce it will make its third successive trip to the Sugar Bowl after meeting Oklahoma A & M. Kentucky already has accepted a Sugar Bowl invitation.

Coach Bud Wilkinson's Sooners whipped North Carolina 14-6 at New Orleans two Sugar Bowls ago and mauled Louisiana State 35-0 in the last one.

Nebraska finished second in the final conference standings with a 4-2 record, its best since the Cornhusker Rose Bowl team of 1940. It scored more points against Oklahoma than any team since Jim Tatum, now of Maryland, brought the split T to Soonerland in 1946.

Two more Big Seven conference teams wind up their seasons this week. Missouri will clash with the University of Miami, Fla., Friday night. Kansas State, playing its last game under the coaching of Ralph Graham, will meet Wichita university at Wichita Saturday.

Iowa State lost its final game of the year to Arizona at Tucson last Saturday night, 26-27. Kansas State was on the short end of a 41-0 count to Oklahoma Aggies at Stillwater. Colorado brushed off Colorado A & M 31-6 at Fort Collins.

The final Big Seven conference football standings for both conference and non-conference games:

	W	L	T	Pct.
Oklahoma	6	0	0	1.000
Nebraska	4	2	0	.667
Missouri	3	2	1	.583
Kansas	3	3	0	.500
Iowa State	2	3	1	.417
Colorado	2	4	0	.333
Kansas State	0	6	0	.000

NEW YORK, Nov. 27—(AP)—What's this; football isn't even over and here's college basketball getting up a full head of steam.

In fact, the dribble boys went into action last week with City College of New York (CCNY) taking up where it left off last March.

The first team ever to accomplish basketball's grand slam by winning both the National Invitation and NCAA tournaments back in March opened its season Saturday with a 81-62 triumph over St. Francis of Brooklyn. The Nat Holman-coached quintet has a breather against Queens (NY) this week, but there are scores of games on tap as major teams throughout the country take the hardwood for the first time.

North Carolina State, defending Southern Conference champion, pry off the lid on Tuesday night against Furman. Generally, however, most of the games are listed for the week-end when teams from virtually all the major conferences begin shooting.

Kansas State of the Big Seven meets Long Island in the feature of a Saturday night twin bill at Madison Square Garden. William and Mary of the Southern Conference is pitted against St. Johns (Brooklyn) in the other game. There also is a Saturday double-header at Buffalo, pairing Canisius and Oregon State, of the Pacific Coast, and Niagara against Brigham Young of the Skyline Six.

Michigan, Minnesota, Purdue, Wisconsin and Indiana are some of the Big Ten clubs listed to get going this week. Nebraska plays at Minnesota Saturday. Southern Methodist, of the Southwest Conference, has two games on tap against Texas Wesleyan on Tuesday and Oklahoma on Friday.

Twenty-one College Teams Unbeaten

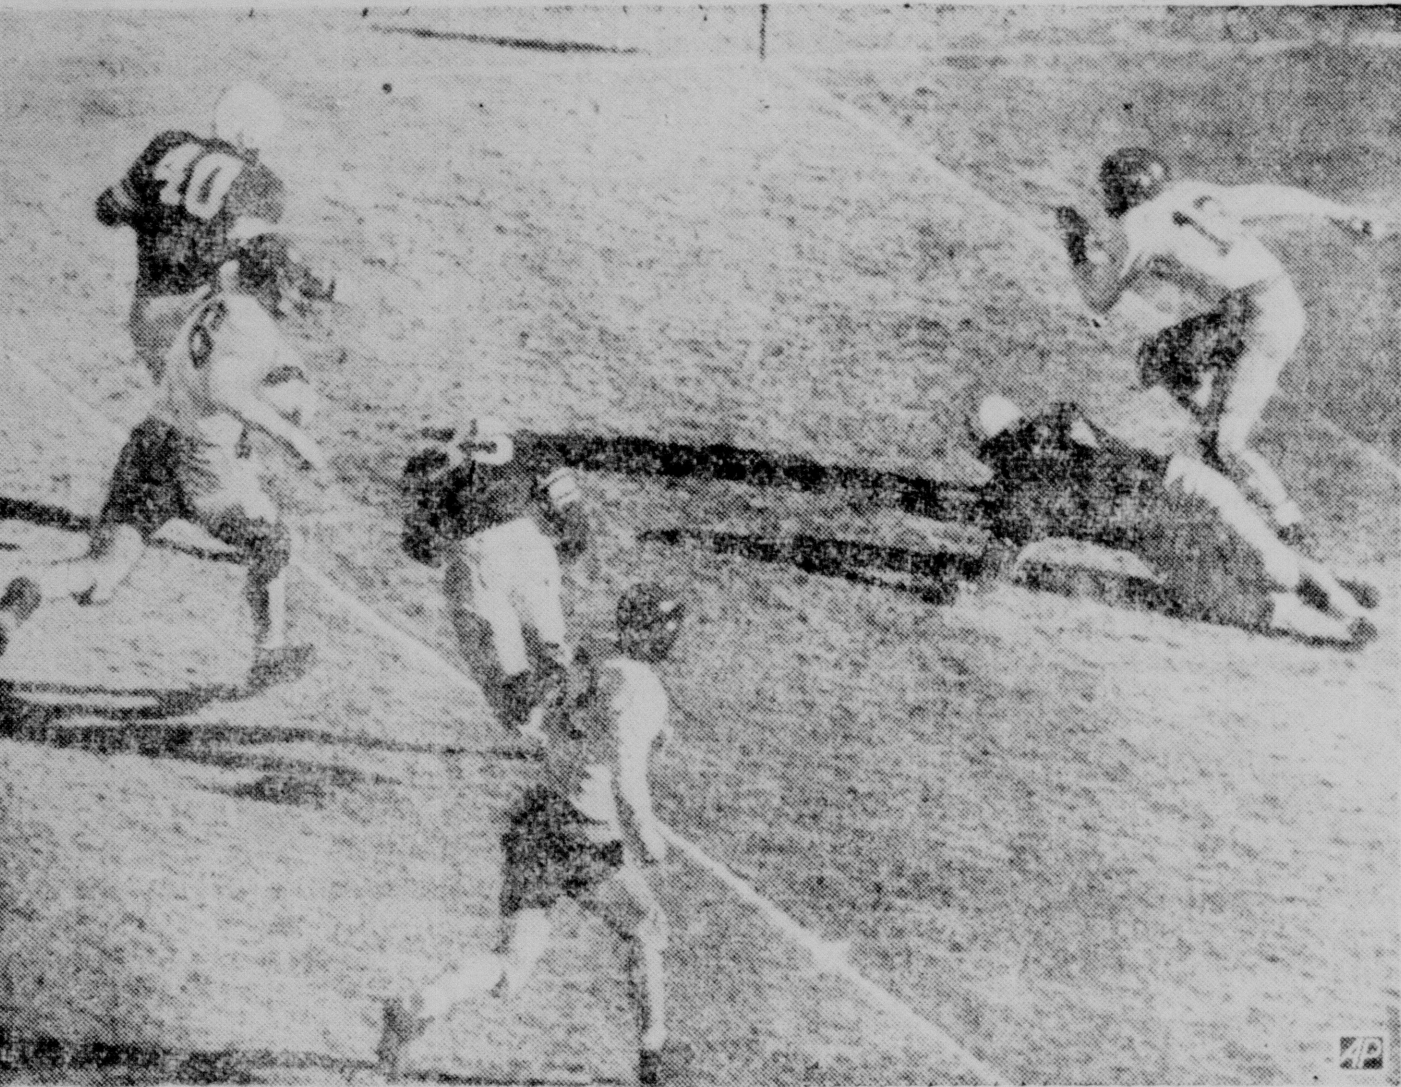

NEW YORK, Nov. 27 — (AP)—Twenty-one college football teams, including four major eleven's, were left on the unbeaten, untied list today, and all but two of them have completed their regular seasons.

If Army and Oklahoma win their final games of the campaign—which they are expected to do—the list will remain intact and represent a high figure for a season marked by upsets.

perfect records this year are Princeton and Wyoming.

Three teams—all major outfits—skidded from the tanks over the week-end. Kentucky, which had won its first 10 games, was spilled by Tennessee, 7-0, and California, victorious in its first nine starts, could only tie Stanford, 7-7. Loyola (Calif.) was tripped up yesterday by Santa Clara, 28-26, after taking seven straight. Army's finale will be the traditional clash with Navy at Philadelphia on Saturday, when Oklahoma also will wind up with a visit to Oklahoma A & M.

Reynolds is The Scoring Champion

Has Record of 157 Points For Nine Games Played

By Fred Hayden

NEW YORK, Nov. 27—(AP)—Bobby Reynolds, the hard-charging halfback of Nebraska's Cornhuskers, is college football's 1950 individual scoring champion with a remarkable 157 points for the nine games.

The sophomore sensation wound up season play Saturday by romping to three touchdowns and kicking five extra points in the game Nebraska lost to powerful Oklahoma, 49-35.

Reynolds thus regained the scoring leadership he temporarily had given up a week earlier to Carl Taseff, flashing fullback with John Carroll University. On that Saturday, Taseff had replaced Bobby on top by crashing over for four touchdowns while Reynolds was clicking for only one and a pair of conversions. That left Taseff with 138 points for a completed 10-game season. Reynolds had 134, with only the Oklahoma game left.

One touchdown against Oklahoma's Sooners would have been sufficient to put Reynolds back on top, but Bobby made sure of grabbing the title by finishing up the season like the star he is.

"Whizzer" White Third Third place in the season standing goes to Wilford (Whizzer) White, who wound up his college career by scoring five touchdowns Saturday night when he led Arizona State (Tempe) to a 48-21 triumph over University of Idaho. Whizzer finished with 136 points, two behind round-bound Taseff.

The best showing made by a major college player other than Reynolds was that of tailback Eddie Talboom of Wyoming, who was fourth with 130 points. He helped the Cowboys close out their first perfect season on Thanksgiving Day, booming to three touchdowns and six conversions in a 42-12 rout over Denver.

Deer Makes Off With the Gun of A Huntsman

MANISTIQUE, Mich., Nov. 27—(AP)—This deer really outsmarted the hunter. He stole his gun.

Harry G. Thompson and Charles F. Massey, both of Grand Rapids, Mich., were hunting Sunday north of this upper Michigan city. Massey brought down a buck.

As they approached the animal, Thompson noticed it was still kicking and thought he had better shoot it in the head.

"Don't do that," said Massey. "The head will make a fine wall piece for the cottage."

So Thompson laid his rifle on the deer's antlers and got out his knife to slit the throat.

But the buck roared, jumped up and dashed deep into the forest—bearing the gun aloft.

Storm Knocks Out LaGuardia Field

Wind-lashed rain and the waters of Flushing bay caused this scene of havoc at New York LaGuardia Field Nov. 25. In foreground gasoline trucks are awash. In background a huge transatlantic passenger plane has water coming up to its engine nacelles. The storm knocked out traffic at what is normally one of the world's busiest airfields. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Escapes And Brings In a Dozen GIs Out of the Hills

"I walked out of the shack into a moonlight night and there they were."

"There were 30 to 40 Chinese soldiers."

They relieved Fulton of his carbine and revolver, money, compass, flashlight and bayonet, "apparently getting a big kick out of getting something they wanted."

Then, under fire of American soldiers on a nearby hill, they marched him up a ridge.

"All this was done by hand motion," Fulton continued. "None of them spoke English and I speak no Chinese."

Under Mortar Fire

As soon as the group reached the hilltop they were under fire by American soldiers.

Small arms fire clipped the tree branches and American mortars wallowed into the hill.

"I was sweating out those mortars as much as the Chinese," Fulton said.

The Chinese were "mighty nice" to him, Fulton continued. When they were under fire they made him get down — "Sometimes I thought they were going to shoot me"—but when the fire eased, they hustled him along the ridge line.

"Finally they put one Chinese on me as a guard and he was overly nice," the Kansan said. The guard made him get down and arise as the American fire increased and lessened. They hugged the ground during one brisk exchange and then the guard stood up and motioned Fulton to do the same.

"I had just gotten up on my knees and he was standing about 10 feet behind me. A mortar got him."

The shell fell directly behind the Chinese guard and blew him to bits. Fulton edged off the ridge and dropped down into a handkerchief-sized cornfield in which there was one shock of corn.

He dove into the stalk which crackled like tin. He lay there until about 5 a.m.—so near the Chinese he could hear them talking.

"It was all quiet. There wasn't a sound."

Fulton stayed in the corn shock until 6:15 a.m. then, peering down into a valley, he sighted a dozen GIs.

"The minute I saw them I made a dive down the hill. Cold, God I was cold. My feet felt like they weren't there and I actually dove down the hill."

Then, "we all took off, walked about eight miles and into another field artillery battalion."

He said the Chinese carried burp guns, Thompson submachine guns or copies of them, and rifles. Some of the Chinese soldiers had two weapons each.

Mercury Fumes Fatal to Child

PUEBLO, Colo., Nov. 27.—(P)—The county coroner said a two-month-old baby died yesterday from the effects of mercury fumes following her father's kitchen stove attempts to extract gold from ore.

Coroner C. N. Caldwell identified the baby as Marie K. Bundy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Bundy of Pueblo. Hospital officials said her 20-month-old brother, Franzoon, is in critical condition.

Dr. Caldwell said Bundy, a steelworker, found the gold ore Friday. That afternoon, the coroner added, the father was boiling it in mercury in the kitchen stove of their small home.

Fumes sickened the entire family, including an older child, but only the two youngest required medical aid. Hospital authorities said Marie was admitted late Friday, suffering a respiratory collapse.

'Doubted' Hadacol Would Help His Aches and Pains—Can't Praise It Enough Now

His Condition Due to Lack of Vitamins B₁, B₂, Iron and Niacin

Mr. James C. Greene, a newspaper advertising account executive, lives at RFD 3, Charleston, West Virginia. Just look at Mr. Greene's keen eyes. You can tell Mr. Greene is a man who is hard to convince until something is really proven to him. But let us have Mr. Greene tell his experience in his own words.

"For quite some time I suffered from nagging aches and pains and then was told by neighbors and friends about HADACOL. After taking HADACOL for a short while, the pains disappeared."

"My work demands steady nerves and accuracy, and those pains hampered me a great deal. I was skeptical of the claims made by my friends who are using HADACOL. I went to a drugstore and got a bottle. To my delight, HADACOL went right to work and the shooting pains left my body. I can vouch for everything the advertisements say about HADACOL, and you can put me on the list of those who say only good things about HADACOL."

James C. Greene

Relieves the Cause of Such Deficiency Pains and Aches

Don't be satisfied with symptomatic relief because HADACOL makes it possible to relieve the REAL CAUSE of such aches and pains when due to deficiencies of Vitamins B₁, B₂, Iron and Niacin in the system.

AND LISTEN TO THIS! Continued use of this wonderful new HADACOL helps keep such tormenting pains and aches from returning.

So if you are one of those people who have been "doubting" HADACOL would help your condition — why not profit by Mr. Greene's happy experience — start taking HADACOL at once — you owe it to yourself — you owe it to your family.

Why HADACOL Comes In Special Liquid Form
The precious Vitamins and Minerals of HADACOL come in special liquid form so that they are easily absorbed and assimilated by the blood. A big improvement is often noticed within a few days' time.

Many doctors recommend HADACOL. They take it themselves and advise it for their families. What better proof can you ask of HADACOL's efficiency?

So be fair to yourself! If you have such deficiencies why go around feeling half alive — a burden to others — when you can get this great HADACOL at any drugstore. Remember, HADACOL must help you or your money will be returned. Trial-size bottle, only $1.25. ©1950, The LeBlanc Corporation

Death Rate High on Pilgrimage SINGAPORE—(AP)—The death list ran high among the 641 Moslems from Malaya who made the long holy pilgrimage to Jeddah. Nineteen of them died at sea aboard the steamer Tyndareus on the way back to Singapore and Penang, all of natural causes.

The ship's physician, Dr. W. B. Crawford Gibson, died of heart disease shortly before the vessel docked here. Three boys were born during the voyage. All were named after the ship.

Annual Farm Forum Held At Columbia

River Basin And Adjustment Are The Chief Topics

Those who attended the second annual Farm Forum at Columbia November 20 and 21 report the time was well spent in hearing the two vital subjects discussed. These two subjects were the development of the Missouri river basin and the agricultural adjustment program.

A well planned forum brings out in the open ideas on two or more sides of controversial issues. It's well to hear both sides. There were two definite sides presented on the development of the Missouri river basin. One side presented the good features of the Pick-Sloan development and the other favored something like the plan now being used in the Tennessee Valley, once known as the Missouri Valley authority.

The advocates of the Pick-Sloan plan pointed out that this program if and when completed would provide for a nine foot channel 300 feet wide from the mouth of the Missouri river to Sioux City, Iowa. This would make transportation by water possible up the Missouri to Sioux City, with much bigger cargoes than at present. This, it is said, would lower the cost of moving freight. By this program the river would be dredged to provide this depth of channel and so it was said by the advocates of this plan, the three hundred ft. wide river can be self scouring by increasing the speed of the water in this restricted channel.

A second feature of this is the prevention of floods of the bottom land adjacent to the Missouri river by levees. These levees above Kansas City would be 3,000 feet apart while from Kansas City to St. Louis they would be 5,000 feet apart. These levees would be constructed by public funds out would be maintained by the farmers. They would furnish the right of way for the levees. As it stands now these are not assessed for the benefits they receive. However, Brig. Gen. S. D. Sturges, Jr., engineer in charge of the Omaha district for the U. S. army said it was now being considered to change this feature to have such farmers pay for some of this benefit.

Building Dams

A third feature of this program is to build many dams, some have already been built. Fort Pick dam for instance. These dams are to be constructed to impound water from heavy rain. This it is said would work with levees in preventing flooding of low lands along the river. In answer to the question how would these dams be emptied of water, Gen. Sturges said the bureau of reclamation plans call for the diverting of some of this water in the upper part of the river — from these reservoirs to other reservoirs to be used for irrigation purposes in areas where rainfall is deficient.

Also this project is designed—so it was said—to provide tremendous amount of electricity needed for farms and industry in the Missouri river basin.

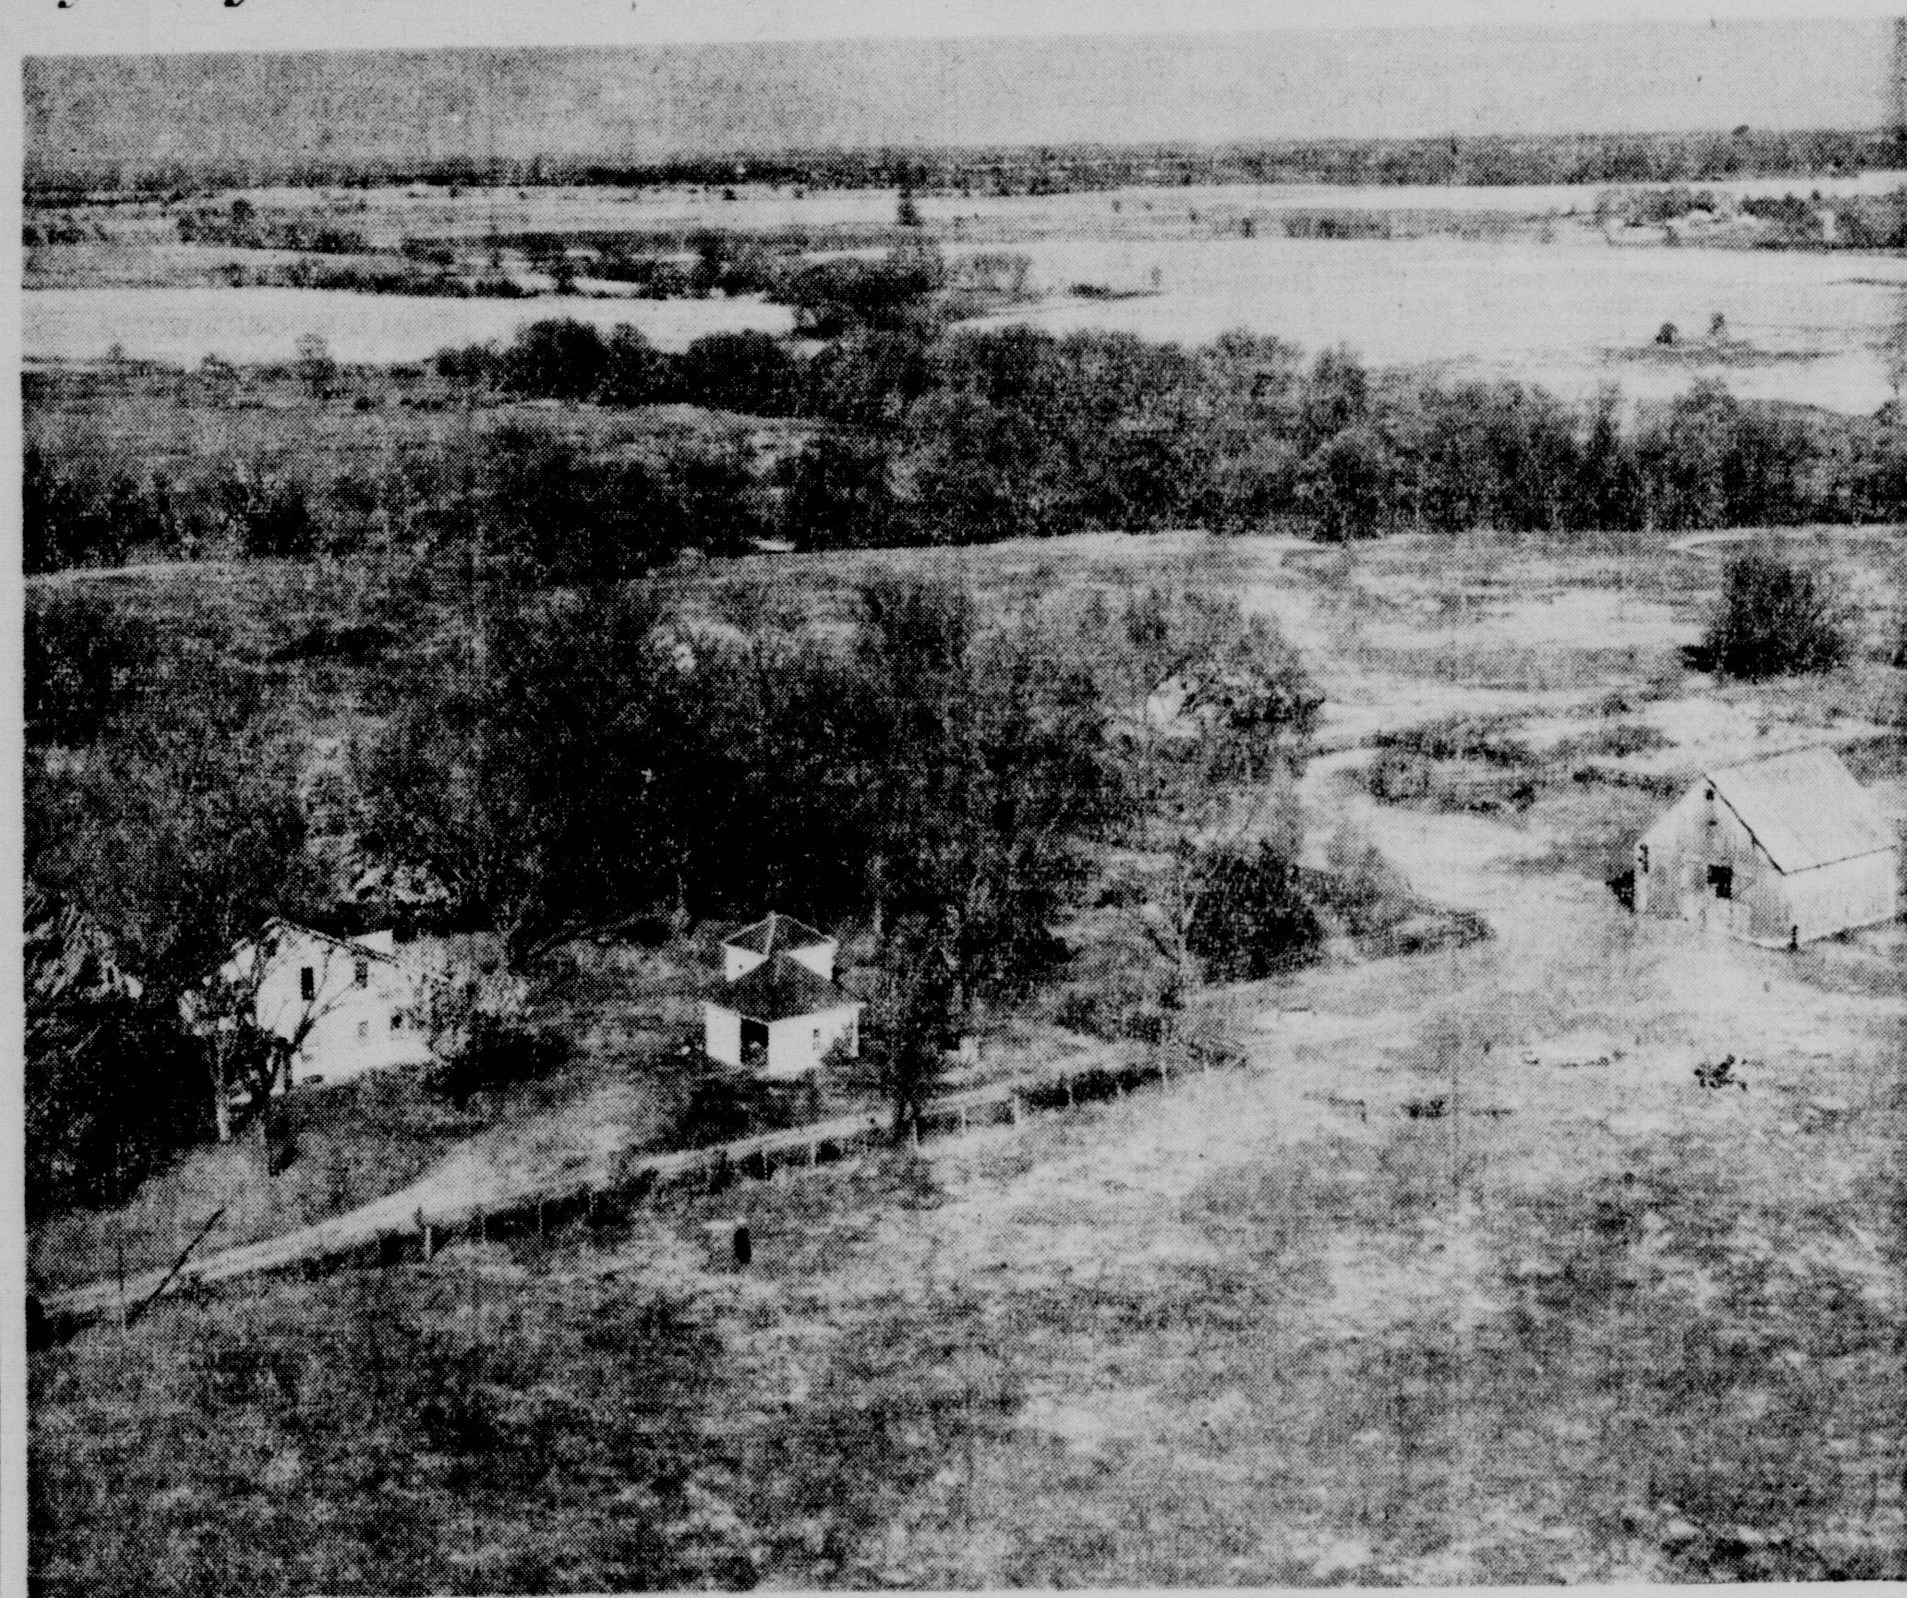

Another feature of the program is to stop as much water as possible from leaving the farm lands where it falls. This is to be done by farm ponds, terraces, contour farming, more cover crops, etc.

Need Less Friction

The main opponent to this Pick-Sloan plan was Fred V. Heinke, president of Missouri Farmers' association. Some of his objections were that there were too many federal agencies involved—five. That it took too long to get action, that there was too much friction between these agencies, that there would be loss of county revenues where the thousand of acres of land would be taken out of production due to the flooding of lands in the reservoirs. He said a plan such as now used in the Tennessee Valley provinces was made to pay into the county treasurer revenues equal to the amount such areas now return to the county.

The general stated that he knew of several cases under the Pick-Sloan plan where the county government secured more revenue from these reservoir areas than before by leasing out this

Mystery Farm Pictures in Central Missouri---

Is this your farm? Most of the readers of the Democrat-Capital have been following this series of weekly Mystery Farm Pictures with considerable interest.

The pictures that appear in this space in Monday's Democrat and Tuesday morning's Capital were taken sometime ago by an aerial photographer. The pictures were not shot with the knowledge of whose farm it was. It was a random job; a picture here and a picture there. To date there have been over sixty-two Mystery Farm Pictures published, most of which have been claimed by the occupants and owners of the various farms. Yours may be next. Watch for it!

is essential for our economy, the speakers said. But he pointed out the work now in a day is much less.

Chester Davis fears we will see an inflation the like of which we have little dreamed of. Spending 40 to 50 billion dollars for defense annually means about 300 per man, woman and child in the United States. This is addition to billion being spent for other governmental purposes. How will this be financed? Most agree that taxes should be the answers but that many cannot pay $300 per person per year. Floating bonds just defers the pay day of principal and interest. Heavier income taxes and perhaps sales tax are in the picture. In spite of what will be done in these the speakers believe we are in for a heavy inflation.

Two speakers said the agricultural adjustment program is out of date. They say it was set up as an aid to distressed farmers in the 30's brought about by the lack of buying power of the public due to unemployment hence the need of the consuming public to buy. They say we will have no or low unemployment and the buying power is here and that farm prices will be such that the amount of present aid to farmers is not justifiable. Dr. C. said the present program is aiding about half of the more prosperous farmers who do not need it and is aiding the other half only a little if any.

Copies of the formal talk will be available soon at the extension office.

All Out Production

Dr. Schultz in his formal address on the economics aspects of agricultural adjustment said there are three alternatives as to the world situation that might be considered in discussing this subject. (1) An international understanding (2) A low war and (3) a state of constant preparedness. He thinks the former two are improbable and that for many, many years we will be spending billions of dollars for defense. Therefore he thinks we must have an all out production program and that we will have no unemployment.

Frank Sellers Had a Good Corn Yield

Pettis Countian Had 121.2 Bushels Acre Average

A Pettis county farmer has won honors in a state-wide corn yield contest, according to an announcement made by the M.F.A. Plant Foods and Seed Division, Columbia.

Frank Sellers, Sedalia, had a yield of 121.2 bushels per acre with MFA 120 variety corn.

His bumper crop entitles him to membership in the M.F.A. "100 Bushel Club," an organization made up of farmers in Missouri who have succeeded in producing corn crops of 100 bushels or more per acre.

The contest, sponsored by the M.F.A. Plant Foods and Seed Division, had 128 entries from all sections of Missouri. Average production on the 128 fields was 111 bushels of corn per acre with 101 of the contestants actually exceeding 100 bushels. Only two of the 128 produced less than 80 bushels. Average fertilizer cost was $16.04 per acre leaving a return of $128.87 after paying fertilizer costs, or a $9.03 return for every dollar spent for plant foods. This is the second year the program has been conducted. Last year 22 entries averaged 110 bushels per acre.

Top ten individuals in the state and their yields were Embleton & Dixon, New Cambria, 153.8; Lenus Meyer, Glasgow, 146.4; Gilbert Norman, Lancaster, 141.9; Roy Cook, New Cambria, 140.6; Mark Ripberger, Glasgow, 139.1; Rufus Eddy Arnl, Jr., Blackburn, 138.34; Hy Winkelman & Sons, Freeburg, 137.7; Carlos Day, Elmer, 137.2; Lynn Akeman, Miami, 136.7; and John C. Faulhaber, Middletown, 135.06.

Applying plant foods according to soil test recommendations and planting adapted varieties of hybrid corn at heavier than normal rates was responsible for the sensational results obtained according to L. E. McQuetter, manager of the M.F.A. Plant Foods Division.

There stood the ghost of his dead partner, Jacob Marley, wrapped in the chains of his worldly selfishness. He told Scrooge that those who do not share their happiness on earth must, after death, wander the world in chains.

Finds Use of Fertilizer For Corn Pays Off

G. E. Richardson, Jr.
Improves Yield by Its Proper Use

"Dad sure has been convinced this year that it pays to fertilize corn." This is the way George E. Richardson, Jr., started out in telling Oscar H. De Wolf, Farmers Home Administration County Supervisor, of his experience in carrying out improved cropping practices. George farms the crop land on his father's farm about six miles southeast from Green Ridge, Missouri.

Mr. Richardson went on to explain that he and his father had decided to use fertilizer when they planted their corn this spring. This decision was reached after considerable explaining and discussion, Mr. Richardson added.

An accidental check strip was what told the story that the use of fertilizer really was paying, and it happened this way: Mr. Richardson was discing and his father was following with the planting. There was being applied about 100 pounds of an 8-14-8 fertilizer in the row. Just a little before time to stop for dinner the supply of fertilizer that had been brought to the field, ran out, and the father asked if he should stop and get some more fertilizer before noon, and it was decided to plant the two more round (eight rows) without fertilizer — that small amount would make little difference, it was reasoned.

Rows Turn Yellow

No more thought was given to the fact these eight rows had not been fertilized until after the corn was up and cultivated once and the long wet spell took over. These eight unfertilized rows turned yellow and seemed not to grow at all and the grass moved in, Mr. Richardson said. The remaining part of the field—that which had received the application of plant food—stayed green and kept right on growing in spite of the grassy condition and wet weather. The unfertilized eight rows showed up very plain all summer, even though the field was well cleaned after the rainy spell. Mr. Richardson said his father took a great deal of pride in showing this field of corn to his friends and neighbors and pointing out what made the difference between the eight rows and the balance of the field.

At gathering time this fall is when the real difference showed up, continued Mr. Richardson. On a comparative yield basis the fertilized rows produced more than twice the unfertilized. The exact difference was not measured, but was so outstanding it was very convincing of how important it is to properly feed the crop plants. Mr. Richardson concluded with his father's statement that no more corn would be planted on

Missouri 4-H'ers Win State Honors

SUPERIOR records of achievement in 4-H Food Preparation, Health, Home Improvement and Poultry programs, have won 1950 state championship honors for four Missouri girls. Their awards—trips to the National 4-H Club Congress, Chicago, Nov. 26-30, were provided by the program sponsors. Highlights of their club careers are told below.

Juanita Smith, 17, of Bunceon, has been in club work five years and completed 12 projects. She always liked to raise chickens, and concentrated especially on this project. Learning the newest methods and practices for poultry and egg production enabled Juanita to raise a flock of 650 White Rocks and New Hampshire Reds. She and her mother, who is a 4-H leader, handle the project jointly. They have built a new 12x16 foot brooder house, and two range shelters for use in connection with it. Plans have been made to enlarge and improve the hen house, and Juanita looks forward to financing her college education with poultry earnings. She has served her club as president and leader, and is very helpful in developing a good 4-H community program. Juanita's trip was provided by Dearborn Motors.

A high spot in 4-H Club work was reached by Judy Schwartz, 17, of Cape Girardeau, when she was named state winner in the Food Preparation program. A 4-H'er for six years, Judy has completed 20 projects and has cooked and served approximately 1,450 meals. When Judy was 11 years old some of the family cooking was turned over to her. She has always planned well-balanced menus. Judy has entered cherry pie baking contests, made 25 food preparation exhibits, winning noteworthy honors. She is junior leader of her local club. Her reward, a trip to Club Congress, was provided by the Kelvinator Corp., of Detroit, Michigan. These 'Used Cars' Are Really Used

'Fever' for Ancient Autos Booms Model-T Prices

CRANKER: Strong arm is a requisite for people with the ancient auto "bug," as demonstrated here by John Dodge of Bedford, Mass., as he winds up a 1911 Cadillac for the big parade at the Antique Auto Fair in Brookline, Mass. At the wheel is Doris Dymont, also of Bedford.

BROOKLINE, Mass.—(NEA)—Not so long ago you could pick up an ancient Model-T Ford for about $15. Now you'd be lucky to get a rusty old one for $150—and if you show too much interest, the price might be three or four times that figure.

The reason for this can be found in places like the gabled and turreted barn of the old Larz Anderson estate in Brookline, just outside Boston, where brass-radiated Ford stands beside gas-lamp Stutz Bearcats and Stanley Steamers.

Elevated to a status in the auto world that old Chippendale holds among furniture lovers, these erstwhile junk heaps have been taken over by well-to-do businessmen and amateur mechanics who form the Veteran Motor Car Club of America.

They devote hundreds of hours to cleaning rats' nests out of their newly-found wrecks, replacing missing parts, reupholstering and repainting, and polishing up the brass and enamel.

Then they proudly assemble their mobile antiques at events like the Antique Auto Fair, sponsored by the Veteran Motor Car Club on the grounds of the Anderson estate, which is now a city park and houses the Anderson museum of ancient cars.

There, spectators who show up in sleek 1950 streamlined models watch the antiques get cranked up, charged up, or fired up, depending on whether the mode of locomotion is gas, electricity or steam. Then the parade takes off, with horns of three, four and five decades ago blending their notes with suddenly revived shouts of "get a horse."

The old autos come out of the museum for display, and others arrive, under their own power, from all over New England for the fair. There are prizes and contests—basketball on wheels is one event—and the members wear clothes that match the vintage of their cars.

What makes these people scour the countryside, place want ads, and bid at auctions for rundown horseless carriages?

"You just get the fever, that's all," says Mrs. W. Nelson Bupp, wife of New England's ranking Veteran Motor Car Club officer. Other collectors simply refer to it as "the bug."

This so-called "bug" caused the late Larz Anderson, one-time U.S. ambassador to Japan and minister to Belgium, to collect everything from rickshaws to Renaults for his Brookline estate. One item he picked up in France—a 1906 Charron Girardot et Voigt—is probably one of the rarest numbers in any auto museum, and was acquired by the Veteran Motor Car Club last year.

It's a copy of the touring limousine built for King Leopold of Belgium. The chassis alone sold for $11,000. In the open-air front seat, the chauffeur braves the elements, but in back it's as luxurious as a hotel suite—plumbing that really flushes, a washbowl with running water, and cushioned seats that pull out into a full-sized double bed.

It held the profound admiration of a white-haired spectator when the limousine was run out of the barn during the Antique Auto Fair.

"They don't build 'em like that any more," he said wistfully.

Rocket Fuel Made From Ammonia

CHICAGO —(P)—The rocket fuel, hydrazine, is produced from ordinary ammonia by chemists at the Illinois Institute of Technology. Hydrazine becomes a powerful rocket fuel when mixed with hydrogen in the rocket's combustion chamber. The work here is under an Office of Naval Research contract.

Fifty-eight per cent of the ammonia is converted into hydrazine in a method developed by H. E. Gunning and A. Kahn.

The Romanoff dynasty ruled Russia from 1613 to 1917.

Plan of Social Security as To Maids

Not be Difficult In Accounting As to Wages

Now the housewife who hires a maid can breathe more easily. Rumors of elaborate account keeping, report filling, and other time-consuming obligations under social security, are set at rest. The bureau of internal revenue and the social security administration unwrapped their plan for reporting regular household workers who come under social security on January first. It was a small package.

Scott Webber, manager of the Sedalia social security office and Carl G. Bellamy, deputy collector of internal revenue here, displayed a small envelope. In form and in size, it resembled those in use by private insurance companies, magazine circulation departments and other commercial firms. It is a one-piece, pre-addressed return envelope. There is space on the inner flap for the essential but brief items on the employee's wage, and a pocket for transmitting the social security tax. That's all. They will be used for making the first reports on regular household employees in April, and every housewife hiring such help must have one.

Under the new social security law, household workers who are paid as much as $50 by one employer in the three-month period, January through March (a calendar quarter), and who have worked for that one employer on 24 days or more in that quarter, or the preceding quarter, will have their wages count toward old-age and survivors insurance. The tax to be remitted in the envelope form will be 3 per cent of the workers' cash wages for the three-month period. The housewife may deduct one-half of this (1½ percent) from her employee's wages. One and one-half per cent is her share of the tax.

To illustrate how the envelope report system will work, Mr. Webber took the case of a housewife who employs one maid on two days a week during the first three months of the coming year. At any time during April, the housewife, he explained, should fill out the envelope form which she will receive in March. The inner flap of the envelope will be already imprinted with the employer's name and address. On one line she will enter the worker's name and social security number, together with the total amount of cash wages paid during the three months. If the wages were $10 per week and since there are 13 weeks in the three-month period, the total would be $130. The 3 per cent social security tax would amount to $3.90 is entered on the last line of the form. A check or money order in that amount is put in the pocket of the envelope. With the envelope sealed, stamped and dropped in the mailbox, the housewife's social security report work is completed until July. No other records will be required.

Right away, every housewife should read the booklet, "Do You Have a Maid?" The back page of this informative booklet is a postage-free post card addressed to the collector of internal revenue. When mailed, it will place her on the list for the March mailing of the envelope report form.

Before January 1, every regularly employed household worker should have a social security account-number card. The social security office is the place to get it.

Copies of "Do You Have a Maid?" may be secured free of charge from the Sedalia social security office, the collector of internal revenue, or from any post office.
